Ardnamurchan is the first distillery to use blockchain technology to trace the production process and sourcing. To do this, the customer simply scans the QR code on the packaging. Ardnamurchan also attaches great importance to sustainability. The energy sources in the production facilities are all renewable and the waste produced is entirely available as a source of feed for the livestock in the area. Ardnamurchan is the first single malt distillery of the famous independent bottler Adelphi. The distillery burns two different styles, peated and unpeated, half of which are then reflected in the finished product. 65% is stored in ex-bourbon casks and 35% in ex-sherry casks.
