Comments

Vinho Verde, in the cool, rainy, green northwest, is the largest wine region in Portugal. The vines grow here in fertile granite soils along the Minho and Douro rivers, which rise in the mountains to the east and make their way until they eventually flow into the Atlantic.

Pairing

Very convincing with various poultry dishes. Seafood, vegetable dishes, citrus sauces, Asian food, antipasti or as an aperitif.

Tasting notes

Straw yellow with green reflections. Intense aromas of passion fruit, grapefruit and elderberry on the nose. Dense, complex and mouth-filling on the palate. Ripe fruit alongside mineral freshness. Sauvignon Blanc touch.
