Comments

Sambuca is a colorless, clear liqueur with 38 to 42 percent alcohol by volume. It is flavored with anise, star anise, liquorice and other spices. Sambuca is usually drunk as a digestif, often with three coffee beans. The beans are chewed when drinking and their bitter taste contrasts with the sweetness of the liqueur. Especially outside of Italy it is common to serve sambuca flambéed.

Pairing

After a meal or just to enjoy.
