My friend Gil will certainly help me live a few more years. He knows you better than the devil. Medicine and the knowledge of substances and their effects were his life. He paid attention to facts and curiosities from around the world. At Vecchio Magazzino Doganale it wasn't difficult to hear real and surreal stories. This year, a wanderer Gil happened to tell a crazy story that took place in a village not far from us. The village was called Rocca Imperiale. After just a few words, he was fascinated by her... I understood immediately that he would not waste any time exploring this dangerous part of the Rocca Imperiale site. I was envious when I found out when he returned that he had found a remedy for the viper's venom from the village of Rocca Imperiale. And not only that. He had also discovered juniper in that harsh valley. When distilling the berries, he used all his medicinal and alchemical knowledge in combination with other herbal ingredients to create an authentic and rustic gin. I will never forget hi
