Comments

The Perlato del Bosco is a more traditional wine as it consists largely of the typical Tuscan grape variety Sangiovese. After the harvest in the 1st and 3rd week of September, an 18-day traditional mash fermentation follows. The 15-month maturation then takes place in French barriques that have been used twice and three times. long finish.

Pairing

Goes well with red meat, game and poultry as well as well-ripened mountain cheese.

Tasting notes

Fine wine with an appealing depth. Fragrant with aromas of lilac and broom, then cherry and blackberry. Juicy and long on the palate with elegant, polished tannins.
