Comments

The Solaia, Antinori's cult wine, harvested and vinified at the Tignanello winery, shows the unmistakable Tuscan identity. A very intense, highly complex red wine that expresses the character of its grape varieties in a wonderfully balanced way. A classic for enthusiasts and collectors with potential to increase in value.

Pairing

Meat and game dishes and good cheese. But it can also be enjoyed excellently as a meditation wine.

Tasting notes

Deep dark, impenetrable ruby violet. Dense and intense nose, smells of ripe, dark currants, blackberries and brown bread crust, with some licorice in the background.

Very clear and precise on the palate, opens with many fine-meshed, dense tannins, builds up richly, nice game, very long finish in the finish.
